Synopsis

Sherlock Holmes has been hired to track down some missing love letters that belonged to one Prince Carl, a foreign dignitary who is now engaged to a Russian princess. The letters reveal a love story between Prince Carl and a common young Englishwoman who sadly took her own life. If the letters should fall into the wrong hands and be made public, it would cause a political scandal. The letters are now in the hands of one Alice Faulkner, who is the sister of the woman Prince Carl was in love with. She blames the Prince for her sister's untimely death and she wants revenge. She has been befriended by two con-artists: Madge and James Larrabee who are trying to get those letters from her so they can blackmail the Prince for a huge sum. But lurking in the shadows is none other than Professor Moriarty who intends to obtain those letters and start a World War!
